Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Acting District Director, Miami, Florida, who certified his decision to the Administrative Appeals Office for review. The acting district director's decision will be affirmed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Colombia who filed this application for adjustment of status to that of a lawful permanent resident under section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act (CAA) of November 2, 1966. This Act provides, in pertinent part:

[T]he status of any alien who is a native or citizen of Cuba and who has been inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States subsequent to January 1, 1959 and has been physically present in the United States for at least one year, may be adjusted by the Attorney General, in his discretion and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to that of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence if the alien makes an application for such adjustment, and the alien is eligible to receive an immigrant visa and is admissible to the United States for permanent residence. The provisions of this Act shall be applicable to the spouse and child of any alien described in this subsection, regardless of their citizenship and place of birth, who are residing with such alien in the United States.

The acting district director determined that the applicant was not eligible for adjustment of status as the spouse of a native or citizen of Cuba, pursuant to section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966, because she had not established that her marriage was not entered into for the primary purpose of circumventing the immigration laws of the United States. The acting district director, therefore, denied the application.

The applicant has provided no statement or additional evidence on notice of certification.

The record reflects that on March 9, 2002, at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, the applicant married [REDACTED] a native and citizen of Cuba whose immigration status was adjusted to that of a lawful permanent resident of the United States, pursuant to section 1 of the CAA. Based on that marriage, on April 3, 2002, the applicant filed for adjustment of status under section 1 of the CAA.

On November 14, 2002, the applicant and her spouse (Mr. [REDACTED]) appeared for a Service interview regarding her application for permanent residence. In the course of a full marriage interview, several discrepancies were encountered. Those discrepancies will not be repeated here. The acting district director concluded that based on the discrepancies encountered at the interview, and facts revealed by research of public records and the Service files of the applicant and her ex-husband [REDACTED], the applicant had not established that her marriage was not entered into for the primary purpose of circumventing the immigration laws of the United States. The acting district director further noted that facts contained in the record point to a preconceived conspiracy on the part of the applicant, Mr. [REDACTED] Mr. [REDACTED], and Mr. [REDACTED] present spouse to circumvent the immigration laws of the United States. The acting district director, therefore, denied the application.

On notice of certification, the applicant was offered an opportunity to submit evidence in opposition to the acting district director's findings. No additional evidence has been entered into the record of proceedings. Nor did the applicant refute or explain the basis of the contradictory testimony given at the interview.

Pursuant to section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361, the burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that she is eligible for adjustment of status. Further, Matter of Marques, 16 I&N Dec. 314 (BIA 1977), held that when an alien seeks favorable exercise of the discretion of the Attorney General, it is incumbent upon her to supply the information that is within her knowledge, relevant, and material to a determination as to whether she merits adjustment. When an applicant fails to sustain the burden of establishing she is entitled to the privilege of adjustment of status, her application is properly denied.

The decision of the acting district director to deny the application will be affirmed.

ORDER: The acting district director's decision is affirmed.
